4. Proposal for the Director of Information for IO3C

The President of IO3C, Christos Zerefos, proposed Don Wuebbles as ad-hoc Member of IO3C and asked the Commission to name him officially Director of Information of IO3C. Don Wuebbles has served IO3C for many years and his particular efforts to keep up the website of IO3C are acknowledged by all Members. The proposal was unanimously accepted.

5. Dobson Award for 2008

C. Zerefos announced that the Dobson Award Committee has decided to split the 2008 Dobson Award to B.-M. Sinnhuber and V. Eyring and read the results of the Committee.

6. Announcement for the 2012 Dobson Award and proposal by Len Barrie

Len Barrie proposed to consider broadening changing the Dobson award somewhat to emphasize the evolution of an Integrated Global Ozone Observing System Perhaps an award for promoting systematic surface-based (total, balloon, LIDAR) ozone observations and their application. The call for the 2012 Dobson Award will be out after the proposal by Len Barrie will be electronically discussed.

7. Location for the next Quadrennial Ozone Symposium in 2012

There has been a proposal by D. Wuebbles to have the next QOS in N. America and a call for proposals will be posted at the website.

8. Any other business

It has been suggested that an in between the consecutive QOS is useful to have a meeting organized by IO3C such as the 20th anniversary of the Montreal Protocol meeting which took place in Athens in 2007. There was a discussion on the time span between QOS, SPARC and other meetings but timing of the next QOS for example will be decided after the decision is taken for WCRP on SPARC's continuation. It was emphasized that IO3C should play a closer role on ozone-climate interactions and the president elect will ask for proposals from IO3C members to create sub-committees on specific topics.
